Canton Cotton Market.

Our cotton market has fairly opened since the last issue of the CITI-ZEN, which seems to give animation to business. The daily receipts are quite liberal and the demand is active; some 150 bales of the new crop have already come in, all of which was purchased here at prices varying from 18 to 201c.

The reports from the cotton growing regions to the Boards of Trade of New York and New Orleans, have fully established a falling off of the growing crop of one third to one-half from the ravages of the army worm and the drought, which has caused a heavy damage by shedding.

We quote prices as follows as we go to press: 181 to 201c., with an active demand.

The American Odd Follow for September is a amber of which the fraternity should be proud. Its coatents from beginning to end are valuable and of general interest, especially its literary and illustrated features. The paper on Two Theories of Man's Origin gives many curious scientific facts. The question. "Is man descended from tadpoles and monkeys?" is ably discussed therein. Bome of the best writers in the land contribute to this magazine. The illustrated articles are: "Government Life-saving Service;" "Orange Culture in Florida;" "The Bryant Homestead;" and "Child for Adoption," (bum 1938.)
